

Some of the Canadian charities that spend the most on political activities?

By Mark Blumberg (June 17, 2017)

I thought I would try something different. On www.charitydata.ca we have 5GB (that is 5 gigabytes) of text information on all Canadian charities. In some cases it is up to 13 years information on each of the 86,000 Canadian registered charities.

www.charitydata.ca provides an easy to use interface that is far easier to use than the CRA's Charities Listing to analyse T3010 Registered Charity Information Return data on a particular charity. Please don't take my word for it – do a side by side analysis for yourself between the Charities Listing and www.charitydata.ca. By the way this is not a criticism of CRA – it is just a reality that they have to work off a legacy system with lots of limitations and we don't have to. Thank you to CRA for doing all the hard work of compiling the information and making it freely accessible to anyone who requests it. The CRA obviously takes no responsibility for how people use or display that information.

The site also allows the user to sort charities under "Advanced Charity Search" by over different 20 criteria.

To create this article I have done something extremely complicated:

- 1) I went to the Advanced Charity Search page on www.charitydata.ca which is a free portal and the its aim is to increase transparency in the Canadian charity sector.
- 2) I clicked the "SORT RESULTS BY" drop down menu to "total expenditures on political activities inside or outside of Canada".
- 3) I left the Ascending/Descending button as "Descending" because I want to know who spent the most on political activities and not the least (about 85000 charities say they spend nothing on political activities!!)
- 4) I waited about 1/10 of a millisecond and the list of Canadian charities that spent most of their money on political activities appeared.
- 5) I was exhausted by all this hard work so I took a 3 hour nap.
- 6) So now I have a list of Canadian charities that spent the most on political activities and I cut and pasted into a Word document and converted it to a PDF.

Here are some of the Canadian charities that spent the most on political activities. I have removed some seemingly obvious mistakes. (The full list is on the website). You can click on the blue name of the charity below and obtain a large amount more information on that particular charity

As an aside www.charitydata.ca also has the Director Search function which allows users to search over 600,000 directors by their first and last names and it is the only publicly available and up-to-date tool for searching directors of Canadian registered charities.

The www.charitydata.ca website is just in its infancy. If you are interested in supporting or sponsoring the website let us know. There is a lot more than can be done but everything requires time or resources.

Some of the improvements include:

- 1) Add more search options
- 2) More frequent updates of the data (typically now only the last year is updated every 6 months).
- 3) Make it available in French
- 4) Put in detailed annotations so people understand more about the data reflected

Hope you find the website helpful.
